THE HAUGEN PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE SUPPLEMENTAL AUTHORITY

The Haugen Plaintiffs respectfully move this Court for leave to file Supplemental Authority in Opposition to the Gilliam Plaintiffs' Motions for Consolidation and Appointment to Tri-lead Counsel and Liaison Counsel, in order to bring to this Court's attention, Judge O'Toole's Memorandum and Order in Forsythe v. Sun Life Financial, Inc., Civil Action No. 04-10584-GAO (D. Mass. January 13, 2005) ("Forsythe") (attached hereto as Exhibit 1).

In Forsythe, the Court denied consolidation of three revenue sharing class actions brought against Massachusetts Financial Services ("MFS")<sup>1</sup> with an excessive management fee action brought against MFS under Section 36(b) of the Investment Companies Act ("ICA"), 15 U.S.C. §80a-35(b).<sup>2</sup> On facts virtually indistinguishable from the facts in these cases, the Court held that “despite certain commonalities among the four actions, consolidation of all four would not be appropriate in this instance for a number of reasons.” Exhibit 1, p. 3.

<sup>1</sup> The three revenue sharing cases are: Forsythe, Eddings v. Sun Life Financial, Inc., et al., Civil Action No. 04-10764 (D. Mass.) ("Eddings"), and Koslow v. Sun Life Financial, Inc. et al., Civil Action No. 04-11019-GAO (D. Mass.) ("Koslow"). For the Court's convenience, a copy of the Forsythe Complaint is attached hereto as Exhibit 2. With the exception of the named plaintiffs, the Eddings Complaint and the Koslow Complaint are identical to the Forsythe Complaint.

First, the Court held: “[T]here are significant differences with respect to the parties and claims asserted.... While consolidation of the Forsythe, Eddings and Koslow actions is appropriate, consolidation of all four actions will unnecessarily delay the Dumond action, as that action is not like to have the standing an class certification issues that the consolidated Forsythe, Eddings and Koslow actions will likely have.” Id., pp. 3-4.

Second, the Court held:

The Dumond Plaintiffs’ section 36(b) claims differ from the section 36(b) claims in the Forsythe, Eddings, and Koslow actions. The Dumond plaintiffs allege that the MFS Funds’ investment advisor and principal underwriter and distributor have charged and continue to charge fees that are disproportionately large, bear no reasonable relationship to the services rendered, and could not have been the produce of arm’s-length bargaining. The gravamen of their complaint relates to the defendants’ alleged (i) failure to pass on to shareholders excess profits from economies of scale, (ii) provision of the same services to institutional clients for substantially lower fees that the defendants charge the funds, and (iii) payments of commissions to securities broker-dealers to execute trades for the funds in exchange for so-called “soft dollars” that benefits the defendants and not the funds. Like the Dumond plaintiffs, the Forsythe, Eddings, and Koslow plaintiffs allege that by receiving excessive advisory fees and inappropriate compensation, the MFS funds’ advisor and distributor have breached their fiduciary duties in violation of section 36(b) of the ICA. But their theory of liability is premised on the defendants’ (i) improper collection of Rule 12b-1 marketing fees, (ii) use of fund assets to make undisclosed payments of “soft dollars”, and (iii) payment of excessive commissions to brokers in exchange for preferential marketing services.

Id., p. 4.

Finally, the Court concluded: “[T]here is a real possibility that, due to conflicts of interest, the rights of some plaintiffs would be prejudiced by the consolidation of all four actions and the appointment of Milberg Weiss, Weiss & Yourman and Bernstein Litowitz as co-lead counsel to oversee the actions.” Id.

The Court's decision in Forsythe speaks directly to each of the reasons that consolidation should be denied here: first, consolidation would unnecessarily delay resolution of the Haugen Action and the related Bennett Action; second, the claims asserted in the Haugen Action and the related Bennett Action materially differ from the claims asserted in the Gilliam Actions; and finally, although the conflicts in Forsythe are of a different type than the conflicts asserted here, the Gilliam plaintiffs and their counsel have conflicts of interest that make consolidation improper. This Court should deny consolidation of the Haugen Action and the related Bennett Action with the Gilliam Actions for these very reasons.
